Getting a cosmetic product ready to sell is slow and easy to get wrong.

Every cosmetic product sold in the UK needs a Product Information File and a safety assessment from a qualified assessor. Small brands often do this for the first time, alone.

The rules are spread out

Label requirements, UK and EU rules and safety documents sit in different places, and they change.

Gaps show up late

A missing label item is easy to miss until the packaging is designed or printed.

Safety steps are a project of their own

Finding a safety assessor or a lab, and sending them complete information, takes time brands do not have.

Who feels it first: founder-led UK beauty, skincare and cosmetics brands with no in-house compliance team.

One place to get product data checked and the file built.

Labelring runs every product through a rulebook of UK and EU cosmetics rules, applied to every label scanned or generated.

1

Enter product data

The brand adds ingredients, claims, packaging and label details.

2

See what is missing

Labelring checks the data against the rulebook and flags gaps.

3

Revise

The brand fixes the flagged items and resubmits.

4

Get the PIF file

Labelring assembles the Product Information File from the completed data.

PIF assembly on the platform

Brands use Labelring to check their data and produce the file. A no-cost pilot with first brands is under way.

Planned service

Referrals to assessors and labs

We plan to partner with safety assessors, and possibly labs, and refer brands to them on a commission basis.

Early, focused, and ready to learn with our first brands.

Where we are

- Pilot: recruiting at least three brands, at no cost for now, starting with founder-led brands.
- Pilot brands: add number
- Products checked: add number
- Rulebook: UK and EU cosmetics rules, applied to every label.

Why us, and the ask

- Team: add founders and relevant experience
- Market: add UK number of beauty brands, with source
- Raising: add amount and stage
- Use of funds: add 2 or 3 priorities
